The Pension Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The house committee on appropriations have completed consideration of the pension appropriation bill. The measure appropriates $20,684,400 and provides that any balance of the appropriation for the current fiscal year that may remain unexpended June 30, 1884, shall be reappropriated. The appropriations in detail are for invalids, widows, minor children and dependent relatives, and for survivors and widows of the war of 1812, $20,000,000; for fees and expenses of examining surgeons, $500,000; for pay and allowance of the pension agents for salary and for preparing vouchers, rent, fuel, lights and postage on letters to the executive department and pensioners $174,400 dollars, and for contingent expenses of pension agencies $10,000. The bill provides that the act relating to claim agents and attorneys in pension cases, approved June 30th, '78, be made applicable to bounty, arrears of pay, lost horse and bounty land cases and pension cases in which arrears of pensions are or shall be claimed or granted. The act referred to provides that it shall be unlawful for any attorney, agent or any other person to demand or receive for his services in a pension case a greater sum than ten dollars. No fee contract shall hereafter be filed with the commissioner of pensions. In a pending case in which a fee contract has heretofore been filed, if the pension be allowed the commissioner of pensions shall approve the same as to the amount of fee to be paid as specified in the contract. It also provides that the fee of ten dollars prescribed shall not be payable to nor demanded or received by any agent or attorney in a pension case until such claim shall be allowed. Upon the allowance of arrears of pay, lost horse, arrears of pensions and pension cases the commissioner of pensions shall direct the same to be paid by the proper pension agents. This act shall apply to pensions as well as all future applications, provided when pensioner obtaining pension or increase thereof, or pending application, has heretofore paid to his agent or attorney a sum equal to the whole or any part of the fee allowed by this act, said pensioner shall be entitled to credit for the same against the sum which would otherwise be payable to such agent or attorney. The bill further provides that from and after July 1, 1884, agents for the payment of pensions shall receive only five dollars for each one hundred vouchers or at that rate for a fraction of one hundred prepared and paid by any agent in excess of four thousand vouchers per annum. It is provided that from and after July 1, 1884, there shall be no more than twelve agents for the payment of pensions, and it shall be the duty of the president to reduce pension agents to not exceed that number. For four thousand vouchers agents will receive the same salary as heretofore, two thousand dollars per year.

Fencing Public Lands.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—In a report to the commissioner of the general land office, George W. Fairchild, deputy United States surveyor of Nebraska, says all agricultural land in that section has been fenced in by cattle men; that their ranges extended for hundreds of miles and wire fences enclosing all desirable lands, and even water courses, are posted at intervals with notices threatening death to all persons opening them. Herders assert that they hold these lands under the desert land and timber culture laws. The result is a complete check to persons seeking to make homestead settlements.

Indian Difficulties.

WASHINGTON, March 22. Agent Riordon of the Navajoe agency, in Arizona, who came to this city with a delegation of that tribe to endeavor to have the boundaries of the reservation extended and defined, has been suddenly called to the agency by a dispatch from the acting agent stating that an outbreak of Indians is imminent.

The commissioner of Indian affairs has received the following telegram from Indian Agent Dyer, now with Cheyennes on Tongue river, Montana:

MILES CITY, Montana, March 21.

Black Wolf's band burned down Anderson's ranch. A cow boy was shot by Indians. Cause unknown. Particulars by mail. Great excitement prevails; am afraid of trouble; further news as soon as received. No mail or telegraph nearer than 65 miles.

XLVIII Congress.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The regular order being demanded Belford appealed to the house to allow one hour to be devoted to consideration of senate bills on the speaker's table, and the appeal proving ineffectual he solemnly declared that no more bills could be passed the remainder of the session under call of committee.

The following reports were submitted:

Nichols, committee on coinage, weights and measures, to establish an assay office at Deadwood, Dakota. Committee of the whole. It declined to make the payment of any award. Adopted.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the bonded extension bill. Herbert resumed his argument against the bill.

Thompson supported the bill, which, he said, presented the question whether the government would bankrupt one class of its citizens where it did not require for any purpose the money which would fall due for taxes. He was not in favor of demanding the "pound of flesh" and expressed his surprise that his friends from the south (Blount and Herbert) should uphold that policy, saying, "In the name of the law we demand the bankruptcy of these people." The question of temperance was not involved in the measure but if a few temperance cranks in the house would vote against the bill it would result in keeping whisky in bond and out of consumption.

Milliken, while denying that he was a "temperance crank," inquired whether even if the bill passed, whiskey would not be taken out of bond in the course of time, to which Thompson replied that it would pass into consumption when it was called out by some temperance cranks, for he had never seen one of that class who before making a speech would not step behind a door and wet his whistle.

Clements opposed the bill and Breckenridge favored it. He read an exhaustive speech in which he went into the history of legislation affecting the whiskey industry. He described the hardships under which that interest now suffered and maintained the equity and justice of the government stepping in and saving it from utter bankruptcy. His speech was received with a good deal of attention from his party associates.

York expressed a desire to see the entire internal revenue system wiped out.

Hiscock opposed the bill.

Ray, of New York, opposed turning the nation into a great whisky storehouse, declaring that the bill asked the government to become a wet nurse to the big baby, whisky interest.

Before the conclusion of the debate the committee rose and Hancock, committee on appropriations, reported the pension appropriation bill. Committee of the whole.

Beach offered a resolution calling on the secretary of the interior for copies of all leases made by him for use or occupation of any ground in the Yellowstone National park, and also for information whether the lessee have complied with the conditions of their lease and as to provisions made to prevent wanton destruction of fish and game in the park. Adopted.

Adjourned.

A Terrible Mining Accident.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., March 22.—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured by the explosion of sulphur yesterday at Carson colliery, near this place. Zacharias Henninger and Carel Gatenbonsky, Hungarians, were working side by side in a narrow chamber only four feet high. They were on their knees and about twenty yards down the chamber. Peter Suppolski was engaged in drifting. It it thought foul gas must have accumulated in a crevice above the heads of Henninger and Gatenbonski, for suddenly a terrific report sounded through the mine, followed by the falling of the roof of coal. The two miners were hurled down the narrow passage sixty feet. A great mass of coal and slate weighing three tons fell upon Gatenbonski, mangling and crushing his body. His flesh was burned and twisted and when the remains were recovered the skin hung in frayed shreds. Henninger was also badly mutilated. Suppolski was burned about the hands and face and beard and his hair was shriveled up to his skin and scalp.

Crime and Death.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 23.—A Gazette special from Denver states that James B. Johnson, a former well-known business man of this city, committed suicide at the union depot in that city yesterday. Johnson had robbed the wholesale drug store of Samuel J. Smith & Co., of St. Joseph, of between $18,000 and $20,000 worth of goods, and when confronted with evidence of his crime last Thursday he confessed and agreed to make restitution. He owned two drug stores, one in Pitkin, Colo., the other in Salt Lake City, and was on the way to these places in company with Mr. Thomas Vannata, of the firm he had robbed, to turn both establishments over to him when he committed the rash act. He leaves a wife and one child.

They did not meet since till to-day, when Meek entered a store where Goodman was. Meek shot him in the side. Goodman knocked his assailant down, took the pistol from him and shot him twice, killing him instantly. The men were well-to-do farmers. Goodman is not seriously injured.

A BROKEN BANK.

Failure of the Boulder National Bank Announced.

It Loaned too Much Money to the Farmers.

Independent Republicans Organizing at Chicago.

A Boulder Bank Broken.

DENVER, March 22. The cause of the failure of the State National bank of Boulder, which was announced this morning, is attributed to the loaning of too much money on real estate. The farmers' alliances have had the effect of preventing sales of wheat for a long time past and in order to meet their expenses farmers have borrowed money. The State National, it is said, holds a good deal of this security. A prominent Denver bank official said this morning: "It has been known for some time that the bank has been lending too much money on real estate. The paper it holds is good, but it is such that it cannot be turned into cash speedily enough to help it out in this crisis." Another gentleman who is pretty well acquainted with the situation stated the same thing in very little different words: "The bank is said to have a large amount of loans and discounts and they are considered good, as the greater part of them are from farmers who were obliged to borrow money in order to hold their wheat." The failure will, it is thought, affect business in Boulder and vicinity to a considerable extent, even if the bank shall be able to pay its liabilities it will require some time to turn its paper into cash, and a depression in business will be the result. A number of the leading citizens of Boulder are in the city and will hold a meeting to-night looking toward aiding the bank to resume business. They say Boulder people and the directors have every confidence in the president, Mr. Buckingham. The management is honest and is composed of some of Boulder's best and most public-spirited gentlemen. From what can be learned from Boulder gentlemen now in Denver the bank will certainly resume business. It has good securities, they say, and will be well backed. It is, however, the opinion of Denver bankers that the bank will not resume.

State Items.

DENVER, March 22.—Mr. Chaffee returned from New York this morning. He goes to Pueblo Monday to attend the funeral of Judge H. O. Thatcher.

Mr. W. H. Sharpley, well known among newspaper men, now traveling correspondent for the Journal of Commerce, was robbed of a valuable watch and all his money on the night of the 18th while stopping at the Grand Central hotel at El Paso, Texas.

BOULDER, Colo., March 22.—The News and Courier was purchased to-day by R. H. Tilney, proprietor of the Colorado Banner. Mr. Tilney has not yet formulated his plans.

Independent Republicans.

CHICAGO, March 23.—The following call for the formation of an independent republican association has been made public here today. It is endorsed by fifty leading citizens, comprising the most prominent business and professional men of Chicago, and it is expected to increase the list to 5,000:

The undersigned citizens of Chicago are members of the republican party, attached to its past and hopeful of its future. Its victory at the next election depends, in their opinion, upon that element of the party which by reason of its independence of action and its patriotic motives has in its hands party success at the polls. They believe that it is essential this year to nominate for the presidency and vice presidency men who are committed to the work of administrative reform and the total removal of the spoils system and boosism from public life, and they are convinced that the independent republicans will refuse to vote for candidates whose records, characters and opinions do not illustrate these principles. They feel that there should be an organization in this city to represent these views, and they invite all republicans in sympathy with this movement to unite with them in the formation of the independent republican association of Chicago.

Among the signers are N. K. Fairbank, A. A. Sprague, Wm. I. Baker, A. C. McClurg, Franklin MacVeagh, Murray Nelson, Henry King, M. D. Wells, Henry Field, and others.

Lynch Law.

MARYSVILLE, Kansas, March 23.—About forty masked men went to the jail last night. Five of them entered the jailor's residence, presented revolvers and compelled him to open the jail doors. Samuel Frayer, convicted of the murder of John Remington and wife, was then taken out, conducted to a wagon bridge in the southern part of the city and hanged. He is said to have made a full confession, stating that he had no accomplice in the murder.

MARYSVILLE, Ks., March 22.—Intense excitement prevails here over the lynching of Fryer last night. Twenty-five or thirty masked men rode up to the jail, took Fryer out to a small creek half a mile from town and hung him from a bridge. When the rope was around his neck he was asked if he had anything to say. He said "yes," and proceeded to give a full account of the cold-blooded murder of John Pennington and wife, which was committed about the middle of February near Frankfort, Ks. It will be remembered that John Pennington and wife were found dead in their barn several days after the murder. They had been robbed and Mrs. Pennington was assaulted in a most brutal manner and afterwards killed by the inhuman brute who paid the penalty of his crime last night.

National Convention Arrangements.

CHICAGO, March 22.—The sub-committee on arrangements of the national republican convention began their session here to-day. The design of the exposition building as it will be arranged for the May festival was submitted. The plan contemplates a seating capacity for 7,870 people, which includes a stage capacity of one thousand. Members of the sub-committee appeared in favor of the plan but no action will be taken until the arrival of the full committee.

The committee have decided to hold the convention in the exposition building and in the auditorium to be constructed for the May musical festival. This will accommodate eight thousand people by utilizing the galleries. It was decided however to limit the tickets to 6000, which will be printed on a steel plate to prevent counterfeiting. The national committee transferred other preliminary details for holding the convention to a committee of citizens who will at once begin raising funds to meet all local expenses. They determined not to sell tickets of admission, as in 1880, if possible to be avoided.

CHICAGO, March 22.—Members of the national committee have instructed the local committee to outline their plan for holding the convention and report details to the national committee to meet next Tuesday, to which date adjournment was taken.

The freezing theory is not considered tenable here, as the animals are protected during the winter. Several have died. The symptoms are lameness, swelling of the ankle and then cracks of the hoof joints.

In the senate a bill was introduced by Senator Moth for the protection of cattle against splnace or Spanish fever and passed a bill appropriating $12,000 for expenses of the special session. The senate refused to recede from its amendment and called for a conference committee, which was appointed.

Death of a Colorado Pioneer.

Mr Charles Henry Briggs, aged 69 years died in this city on Thursday, March 20, 1884, of meningitis, after a short illness. Mr. Briggs was born on February 15, 1815, in the state of Massachusetts and came to Colorado in 1861 and was one of the earliest pioneers of Douglas county, where he served as justice of the peace for several terms. He was noted for an eccentricity not commonly met with. Whenever parties applied to him to issue a process of court he would always counsel them to amicably settle their matters of difference and avoid litigation in the courts, and many times lost a good fee by such advice. "Good will toward all" was his universal advice to all who consulted him. At one time he was the owner of a large cattle ranch of considerable value, but through reverses he died possessed of little of this world's wealth. He raised a family of twelve children, one of whom is quite a prominent citizen of Waterloo, Iowa, and will probably be here in response to a telegram to attend the funeral of his father. The funeral services will be held at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. R. B Hosick, on Corona street, between Dale and Willamette streets, at 2 p. m. to-day. Rev. A. W. Arundel, pastor of the M. E. church, will officiate and all friends and relatives of the deceased and his family are requested to attend

The Markets.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Wool dull, weak unchanged.

Money easy 1¾ to 2; prime paper 4 to 5½; sterling exchange strong 4.87¼, demand 5.89½; governments strong; railways firm; states quiet. Stocks opened weak, and lower on further reduction in trunk line rates. The decline in prices was unimportant, ranging from ⅛ to one per cent. After 10:30 the market was firmer and there was a rally of ¼ to ¾. About 1:30 Lake Shore was raided. It was also rumored from the west some roads in the east-bound pool were taking grain at 10 cents per hundred pounds. The said and rumors exerted an unfavorable influence on the markets, and with the exception of a light rally, late in the afternoon, speculation was weak and lower until the close. The market closed weak, and as compared with last night's close prices are ⅛ to 1⅛ lower.

The mining market was again dull and featureless. Transactions were small in the aggregate and changes unimportant. Reports from various mining districts were favorable and show considerable activity, and as soon as milder weather sets in active operation will be resumed. Sales at the board included Alice at 2.24, Amie 08, Bulwer 1.23, Harlem 05, Sierra Grande 75, Little Chief 50, Lacrosse 10, and Consolidated Virginia 15.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
DENVER, March 10 1884

The members of this committee are requested to meet at the City hall in Denver on Thursday, the 10th day of April, at 12 m of said day

The republicans in the new counties are requested to send a representative from each county to be present at said meeting

J B CHAFFEE Chairman

S NICHOLS, Secretary

The first issue of Mr Rothacker s Opinion will be on sale to-day at Howbert Bros ' It will be the brightest paper in the state and should have a large circulation here.

We print elsewhere a communication in answer to 'Druggist." We trust that this correspondence will call forth a candid and sensible discussion of just what kind of a license the council should issue to druggists

The city convention nominated last night the old ticket. Mayor Humphrey has made a very active, faithful mayor notwithstanding the ill health he has had during the past year Mr D. J. Martin has been a reliable and faithful guardian of the public funds Both will be re elected to serve the term for which the people elected them a year ago

People should be careful how they sign petitions It was related a few days ago at a Boston club that a petition was presented to the Massachusetts legislature regarding colored children It began, "we, the undersigned, parents of colored children," etc It was signed by ex-governors, members of the supreme court, judges and officials in other high positions

There is a common ground on which the respectable people of this city can stand, and that is the saloons and saloon practices must go The public sentiment of this city is strongly in favor of this and should be felt by every man who is keeping a public or concealed bar The time has come to make this reform We have allowed our laws to be violated with impunity long enough

There never was so great want of harmony in the democratic party just before a presidential election as is now apparent in the contest over the Morrison bill The question is an economic one, but it is discussed purely as a question of party expediency But this will do no good, because the two wings of the party cannot agree on what is expedient, and if they should the country would see that expediency, not honest conviction, dictated the position Expediency at best only brings temporary success But sincere conviction of the truth of sound political principles and policies will bring enduring and permanent success

The question was recently asked us if the use of liquor in this country was increasing or decreasing The former was thought because of the aggressive stand of the liquor dealers and the influence they have Mr David A Wells has given some figures that are pertinent In 1840 with a population of 17,000,000, the census gave our product of whiskey as from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons This is nearly three gallons per capita, besides the amount imported In 1883 the returns show a consumption, including domestic product and importations, of 1 14 gallons per capita In 1870 we collected tax on 71,000 000 gallons of whisky In 1880, with a population of 50,000,000 the tax was collected on 3,000,000 gallons less The statistics show conclusively that the amount of spirits used per capita is constantly decreasing This is also true of Great Britain

This is a day when we like to hear and think about Christian charity It is by no means a modern virtue as some "liberal Christians" assume After Augustine went on his missionary trip to England, he wrote back some questions to be answered by Gregory the Great One question was regarding the different customs existing in the different churches where the faith was the same, and asking what customs he should follow The answer given in 597 is as follows "You know, my brother, the custom of the Roman church in which you remember you were bred up But it pleases me, that if you have found anything either in the Roman or the Gallican, or any other church, which may be more acceptable to Almighty God, you carefully make choice of the same, and sedulously teach the church of the English * * * For things are not to be loved for the sake of places, but places for the sake of good things Choose therefore from any church those things that are pious, religious and upright, and when you have, as it were, made them up into one body, let the minds of the English be accustomed thereto "

A Reply to 'Druggist '

March 22, 1884

To the Editor of the GAZETTE.

I have read the letter of "Druggist" in your paper of this morning and your very appropriate comments thereon 'Druggist" speaks of "one who wishes to keep the law, and only breaks it under protest " Is there such a one in this city? If so where is the proof? If so—if he is willing to confine himself strictly to sales to invalids for medical purposes why does he not procure a license, and then sell,—not under protest, but in a manly, open, honorable way? But he says the law is "utterly impracticable" How does he know? Has he tried it Some physicians, perhaps, tell him that it is impracticable, while others tell us that it is practicable, that it can be easily and safely lived up to, if an honest effort is made to do so

If 'Druggist" is as conscientious and honorable as he would have us believe—and as we would gladly believe if he would only prove it by his actions, let him procure a license, and instead of using his influence to prevent the enforcement of the law, let him obey the law squarely in its very letter and spirit and assist the authorities to enforce it against all others who violate it Then if the law is found to be "impracticable " if its observance be found to be too burdensome, the people of this city will without doubt consent to any modification that will not open the way to an easy violation of the law by unscrupulous men This proposition is made in all candor, believing that the difficulties—if there are any—can best be remedied by an effort to obey the law If the letter of "Druggist" is not a bit of special pleading, intended to create sympathy for him in his wrong doing, let him come out on the right side. He might suffer for awhile but in the end he would be the gainer every way And even if not, if he were to be reduced to poverty and to want,—to starvation even, is that a reason that he should be permitted to go on violating the law? For every family supported by the profits of liquor selling, many men are ruined soul and body and estate, and many women and children reduced to penury and want and degradation

If in the march of reform on this great question anybody has to suffer, let the liquor seller starve if need be, rather than continue to vend his poison and drag down to ruin and dishonor and death hundreds of his fellow creatures But there is no need of anyone suffering through adherence to the right in this matter

There are several points in this rather remarkable letter that I would be glad to notice, but cannot at present PROHIBITION

HARPERS FOR APRIL

Harper's Magazine for April well illustrates the capabilities of that periodical in both the literary and artistic field. The variety of its contents is a remarkable feature

The frontispiece is the first of W B Closson's reproduction of 'Great Pictures," engraved from the original paintings, and is a gem of art, The engraving is from the original painting by Murillo, known as 'The Immaculate Conception," and reproduces with wonderful fidelity the lower portion of that picture the group of child angels

Charles Eliot Norton contributes a paper of considerable archæological value, entitled "A Visit to Sardis," with illustrations The Hohenzollern dynasty is the subject of an entertaining paper by Professor Herbert Tuttle, with thirteen illustrations Ernest Ingersoll contributes the first of two papers, admirably well illustrated by A C Redwood, entitled 'From the Fraser to the Columbia." "A Lover s Pilgrimage, ' by E D R Bianciardi, beautifully illustrated, describes a visit to the tomb of Shakespeare's Juliet, in Verona A biographical sketch of Edward Bulwer, Lord Lytton, apart from its literary value, is interesting from the fact that it is contributed by C Kegan Paul, the English publisher of the recent biography of Bulwer by his son, the present Lord Lytton 'Workingmen's Homes, ' by R. R Bowker, is a full and interesting review of the enterprises undertaken by George Peabody, Octavia Hill, and Sir Sidney Waterlow, in London for the provision of improved homes for the industrial classes, and of similar enterprises in this country, with illustrations Colonel Higginson contributes the fourteenth chapter of his American History series, entitled "The Second War for Independence," treating of Madison's administration and the war of 181- The illustrations comprise portraits of President Madison and Mercy Warren, and a very effective picture of Howard Pyle representing the impressment of American seamen Helen W Ludlow contributes a fine poem entitled 'Easter Wings," beautifully illustrated by W H Gibson The fourth part of William Black s 'Judith Shakespeare" is given with an illustration by Abbey, also the fifth part of E P Roe s novel, 'Nature s Serial Story," illustrated by Gibson and Dielman Charles Reade concludes his story of 'The Picture," and there is a bright short story by an anonymous writer, entitled "Six of One and Half a Dozen of the Other" Poems are contributed by H H , E H Horne, G I Lanigan and Laura M Marquand Professor W P Trowbridge, of the School of Mines, Columbia college, contributes a very important and timely paper on Modern Sanitary Engineering full of valuable suggestions relating to the water supply of large cities, the sewerage of large inland coast towns the subsoil drainage of cities house drainage and ventilation The Editor s Easy Chair contains, among other good things, an elegant tribute to the late Wendell Phillips The other editorial departments are full, as usual, of interesting and entertaining matter

APRIL MANHATTAN

Two Americans have reason to be satisfied with the appearance they make in The Manhattan for April—Edwin Booth and Mr Cropsey, the landscape painter Both the portrait of Booth, which is the frontispiece, and the portrait of Cropsey are the work of Velten, and are masterpieces of wood engraving, while all the beauty of the cuts is preserved by the richness and delicacy of the printing The portrait of Booth is one of a series of eight cuts the other seven depicting him in several of his leading characters They are all good, but one of the Richelieus and the Lear, from a painting by Jervis McEntee are particularly fine These portraits illustrate a most interesting biographical and critical paper on the great actor by Henry C Pedder, who treats his subject with a breadth of view and nice discrimination seldom brought to it An article by Matthew Arnold on Literature and Science" is a strong plea for keeping to literature in its broadest sense, as the foundation of education Written with strength and vivacity, the paper shows the famous Englishman at his best

The paper on Cropsey, which relates many incidents of his life not generally known, has besides his portrait, a view of the interior of his studio in his house in Orange county, N Y of the north and south side of the house, and of the elevated railroad station at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue, which, as well as all the stations on the Sixth avenue line, was designed by Cropsey, Besides, there is a facsimile of a drawing in his possession by the present crown princess of Germany and princess royal of Great Britain, when she was a girl of fifteen Another illustrated article is on the quaint old town Rothenburg, in Bavaria, described by Elizabeth E Evans in a very readable and entertaining way The newspapers will not all like "Recent Tendencies of American Journalism," by E V. Smalley, who gives his opinions about American journalism in general, and the effect of the late reduction of price in newspapers in particular, in a frank and unhesitating way Kate Sanborn attacks in a lively fashion the Chaucerian maniacs and their worship of Dan Chaucer, who, according to them, was born at four different places at different dates, was blessed with three fathers, and was both very fat and very lean,

The fiction comprises An Autographical Romance," an original and well wrought short story by Julian Hawthorne, "An Easter Egg " a short story with a simple theme, but sweetly and easily told by Mrs Mary E Bradley, and a further alluring instalment of Edgar Fawcett s "Tinkling Cymbals " There is a stirring poem by Edna Dean Proctor, full of fire and Oriental color, a supposed address of 'El Mahdi to the Tribes of the Soudan," of which the sentiments will, no doubt, meet El Mahdi s approval, if he can read the lines Among the other poets of the number are Ella Wheeler, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Thomas S Collier, H C Faulkner and J A Macon, with an "Old Time Plantation Song," in the ante bellum negro dialect, which there are only two or three persons living besides himself competent to write The departments of Recent Literature, Town Talk and Salmagundi are well filled

THE MODERN AGE

The Modern Age for April opens with an interesting story by Canivet, entitled "Sosthenes Barat " 'A New View of Mormonism" is by an English member of parliament, and gives the side of the case favorable to the Mormons "The Story of a Genius" is concluded in this number, and proves it to be a most powerful and interesting piece of fiction Mario, the great tenor, is agreeably written of in an article of some length 'Sentenced to Spitzbergen" is a thrilling story by Alarcon, the Spanish writer who is just becoming known in this country 'Banqueting, from a Reporter's Standpoint" is a gossipy description of public banquets in England The number contains two poems, one by Robert Browning and the other by R D Blackmore, the author of 'Lorna Doone " The editorial departments are even better than usual, and the prizes are awarded for the second "Examination Papers "

A TRIO'S TRIBULATIONS

Thrilling Adventures Attending Mountain Travel in Southern Colorado

The following interesting story we clip from the Santa Fe Review As two of the gentlemen, W H Seed and I W Wright, are citizens of Colorado Springs, we reproduce it

It is doubtful if ever there were told a more thrilling tale of mountain adventure than that which a representative of the Review gleaned last evening from a trio of gentlemen who had been there and "know whereof they spoke" Mr. W H. Seed, representing Chas Henkle & Co, Pueblo, Mr. I. W Wright, of Sprague, Warner & Co, Denver, and Mr Geo W Clark, western representative of the Missouri Glass works, St Louis, came in on the Espanola stage from the north at noon and took quarters at the Palace They looked like they had been wearing mustard plasters on their faces for a week

The cuticle was dried and cracked and curled up over their noses and cheeks like the sun dried bottom of a Missouri creek on a windy day. Their nobby stiff crowned hats had been discarded for large somberos, they wore blue flannel shirts and leggings, and the handkerchief of each had three suspicious looking holes torn in the center calculated to give the impression that they had figured in some desperate den common to highwaymen

The gentlemen had hardly been assigned to rooms before a reporter was on their trail to learn what it all meant, and the party went over their adventures in the mountains again with decidedly more relish than had been displayed while going through their first experience.

On March 2 Messrs. Seed, Clark and Wright boarded the D & R G. passenger train at Antonito en route to Durango on a commercial visit. There were nineteen passengers aboard, including two ladies and four children. That afternoon the train struck a snow bank four miles east of Cumbres The fires went out in the engine, every wheel was clogged, and the "beautiful" began drifting over the train In this condition they remained till March 9—just a week At the end of that time the situation became desperate—a clear case of life and death with the chances largely in favor of the worst. There were two cases of eggs in the express car and the train boy had a limited stock of apples, peanuts, pecans and oranges By the stinted use of these the party of nineteen managed to keep off starvation for the first three days, and—then, again something had to be done Desperate as it was a couple of Mexicans agreed to undertake a trip to Cumbres in search of provender provided they were well paid for it The snow was anywhere from ten to forty feet deep, but they got through and returned with a supply of provisions sufficient to last two days Hungry as they were the party had the good sense to appoint a commissary with instructions to figure out the greatest daily allowance per head, and shoot the first man that showed signs of desperation But there was nothing to drink—nothing but melted snow, and that was—well, it was simply fearful for some of those passengers. However, the commissary allowed them one sandwich, two eggs and one cup of coffee daily, and by this means they fared comfortably until Sunday the 9th Then the train men despaired of aid and gave orders that everybody who could must take to the snow bank and walk out.

One poor fellow who was traveling with his little daughter complained bitterly and said his child would perish, but he had to go; for the provisions were low and barely sufficient remained to keep the two ladies and three children alive, together with the husband of one of the ladies, until some of the party could get out and send aid. Such times of peril make men brothers, and all took turn about in carrying the child on their backs and after a desperate struggle through a blinding storm reached Cumbres. In order to make the journey the party were compelled to crawl through a 400-foot snow shed in which the snow had drifted till it formed a perfect tunnel not larger than three feet in diameter, and, as Mr. Seed says, the Lord only knows how high it was above the shed.

At Cumbres the party found a train so completely snowed in that the men had made holes in the snow and went in and out of the cars like prairie dogs enter their burrows. A similar aperture was made through five feet of snow on top of the section house and the railroad employes entered the house through the roof. Here the party slept and remained till Tuesday, the 11th inst., when they started out and walked eight miles to a point on the road where Division Superintendent Lytle's train had been snow bound and "dead" for four days in an endeavor to reach Cumbres and render relief to them Despairing of all other hope, the gentlemen above named started on Wednesday morning to walk to Chama. A sturdy mountaineer named Burns led the way and broke the trail, the snow being breast deep for four miles out of the entire distance of eight. In a number of instances they sat down and rested on the cross-arms of the telegraph poles, and sometimes poles and wires were found buried completely. On several occasions the commercial men lost all hope They had been cooped up in a "dead" train for eight days and were weak. "A jack knife was a burden, and a man's hat felt like a mountain," said Mr Wright "We are indebted to Burns for our lives He cheered us on and often and often came back after he had broken the trail and helped us out of a snow pit in which we had floundered for ten minutes. Most of this time it was snowing and wind cutting our faces till they cracked and bled. Burns saved us some pain, however, by slitting holes in our handkerchiefs, and tying them tight over our faces, giving us the appearance of veritable highway robbers" At Chama they secured snow shoes—"a man who has never slipped down a 500 foot glacier doesn't understand what kind of a gait is his favorite until he sets on his first pair of snow shoes," remarked Mr. Clark Friday night, the 14th instant, found them at Los Ojos, thence on horseback to Esquibel's ranch, thence by team to Abiquiu and Boquet's, where they boarded the Espanola stage for Santa Fe Thus far these are the only three men out of the San Juan country since the first of the month, What became of their fellow passengers is unknown but Superintendent Lytle is within eight miles of Cumbres, and it is believed that ere this he has gone to their relief. The day these gentlemen left he had given orders for a dozen carpenters to push their way through on foot to Cumbres and build a number of sleighs to be manned by mountaineers and sent to the relief of the women and children on the "dead" train. They were to start on this mission yesterday. All this is on the Durango extension A large force of men are at work, but up to the time of this party's leaving the continuous storm and drifting was so severe that but little could be accomplished in the way of clearing the track. The Espanola branch is in much better condition. A day's work would put trains through but all efforts to clear away the snow and save the valuable property—and perhaps life now endangered, are centered on the Durango extension

The want of a reliable diuretic which while acting as a stimulant of the kidneys neither excites nor irritates them was long since supplied by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters This fine tonic exerts the requisite degree of stimulation upon these organs, without producing irritation, and is therefore far better adapted for the purpose than unmedicated excitants often resorted to. S. NICHOLS, Secretary.

The first issue of Mr. Rothacker's Opinion will be on sale to-day at Howbert Bros.' It will be the brightest paper in the state and should have a large circulation here.

We print elsewhere a communication in answer to "Druggist." We trust that this correspondence will call forth a candid and sensible discussion of just what kind of a license the council should issue to druggists.

The city convention nominated last night the old ticket. Mayor Humphrey has made a very active, faithful mayor notwithstanding the ill health he has had during the past year. Mr. D. J. Martin has been a reliable and faithful guardian of the public funds. Both will be re elected to serve the term for which the people elected them a year ago.

People should be careful how they sign petitions. It was related a few days ago at a Boston club that a petition was presented to the Massachusetts legislature regarding colored children. It began, "we, the undersigned, parents of colored children," etc. It was signed by ex-governors, members of the supreme court, judges and officials in other high positions.

There is a common ground on which the respectable people of this city can stand, and that is the saloons and saloon practices must go. The public sentiment of this city is strongly in favor of this and should be felt by every man who is keeping a public or concealed bar. The time has come to make this reform. We have allowed our laws to be violated with impunity long enough.

There never was so great want of harmony in the democratic party just before a presidential election as is now apparent in the contest over the Morrison bill. The question is an economic one, but it is discussed purely as a question of party expediency. But this will do no good, because the two wings of the party cannot agree on what is expedient, and if they should the country would see that expediency, not honest conviction, dictated the position. Expediency at best only brings temporary success. But sincere conviction of the truth of sound political principles and policies will bring enduring and permanent success.

The question was recently asked us if the use of liquor in this country was increasing or decreasing. The former was thought because of the aggressive stand of the liquor dealers and the influence they have. Mr. David A. Wells has given some figures that are pertinent. In 1840 with a population of 17,000,000, the census gave our product of whiskey as from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons. This is nearly three gallons per capita, besides the amount imported. In 1883 the returns show a consumption, including domestic product and importations, of 1.14 gallons per capita. In 1870 we collected tax on 71,000,000 gallons of whisky. In 1880, with a population of 50,000,000 the tax was collected on 9,000,000 gallons less. The statistics show conclusively that the amount of spirits used per capita is constantly decreasing. This is also true of Great Britain.

This is a day when we like to hear and think about Christian charity. It is by no means a modern virtue as some "liberal Christians" assume. After Augustine went on his missionary trip to England, he wrote back some questions to be answered by Gregory, the Great. One question was regarding the different customs existing in the different churches where the faith was the same, and asking what customs he should follow. The answer given in 597 is as follows: "You know, my brother, the custom of the Roman church in which you remember you were bred up. But it pleases me, that if you have found anything either in the Roman or the Gallican, or any other church, which may be more acceptable to Almighty God, you carefully make choice of the same, and sedulously teach the church of the English. * * * For things are not to be loved for the sake of places; but places for the sake of good things. Choose therefore from any church those things that are pious, religious and upright, and when you have, as it were, made them up into one body, let the minds of the English be accustomed thereto."

A Reply to "Druggist."

March 29, 1884.

To the Editor of the GAZETTE.

I have read the letter of "Druggist" in your paper of this morning, and your very appropriate comments thereon. "Druggist" speaks of "one who wishes to keep the law, and only breaks it under protest." Is there such a one in this city? If so, where is the proof? If so—if he is willing to confine himself strictly to sales to invalids for medical purposes, why does he not procure a license, and then sell,—not under protest, but in a manly, open, honorable way? But he says the law is "utterly impracticable." How does he know? Has he tried it? Some physicians, perhaps, tell him that it is impracticable, while others tell us that it is practicable, that it can be easily and safely lived up to, if an honest effort is made to do so.

If "Druggist" is as conscientious and honorable as he would have us believe and as we would gladly believe if he would only prove it by his actions, let him procure a license, and instead of using his influence to prevent the enforcement of the law; let him obey the law squarely in its very letter and spirit and assist the authorities to enforce it against all others who violate it. Then if the law is found to be "impracticable;" if its observance be found to be too burdensome, the people of this city will without doubt consent to any modification that will not open the way to an easy violation of the law by unscrupulous men. This proposition is made in all candor, believing that the difficulties—if there are any can best be remedied by an effort to obey the law. If the letter of "Druggist" is not a bit of special pleading, intended to create sympathy for him in his wrong doing, let him come out on the right side. He might suffer for awhile, but in the end he would be the gainer every way. And even if not, if he were to be reduced to poverty and to want,—to starvation even, is that a reason that he should be permitted to go on violating the law? For every family supported by the profits of liquor selling, many men are ruined soul and body and estate, and many women and children reduced to penury and want and degradation.

If in the march of reform on this great question anybody has to suffer, let the liquor seller starve if need be, rather than continue to vend his poison and drag down to ruin and dishonor and death hundreds of his fellow creatures. But there is no need of anyone suffering through adherence to the right in this matter.

There are several points in this rather remarkable letter that I would be glad to notice, but cannot at present. PROHIBITION.

LITERARY.

HARPER'S FOR APRIL.

Harper's Magazine for April well illustrates the capabilities of that periodical in both the literary and artistic field. The variety of its contents is a remarkable feature.

The frontispiece is the first of W. B. Closson's reproduction of "Great Pictures," engraved from the original paintings, and is a gem of art. The engraving is from the original painting by Murillo, known as "The Immaculate Conception," and reproduces with wonderful fidelity the lower portion of that picture the group of child angels.

Charles Eliot Norton contributes a paper of considerable archæological value, entitled "A Visit to Sardis," with illustrations. The Hohenzollern dynasty is the subject of an entertaining paper by Professor Herbert Tuttle, with thirteen illustrations. Ernest Ingersoll contributes the first of two papers, admirably well illustrated by A. C. Redwood, entitled "From the Fraser to the Columbia." "A Lover's Pilgrimage," by E. D. R. Blanchardi, beautifully illustrated, describes a visit to the tomb of Shakespeare's Juliet, in Verona. A biographical sketch of Edward Bulwer, Lord Lytton, apart from its literary value, is interesting from the fact that it is contributed by C. Kegan Paul, the English publisher of the recent biography of Bulwer by his son, the present Lord Lytton. "Workingmen's Homes," by R. R. Bowker, is a full and interesting review of the enterprises undertaken by George Peabody, Octavia Hill, and Sir Sidney Waterlow, in London for the provision of improved homes for the industrial classes, and of similar enterprises in this country, with illustrations. Colonel Higginson contributes the fourteenth chapter of his American History series, entitled "The Second War for Independence," treating of Madison's administration and the war of 1812. The illustrations comprise portraits of President Madison and Mercy Warren, and a very effective picture of Howard Pyle representing the impressment of American seamen. Helen W. Ludlow contributes a fine poem entitled "Easter Wings," beautifully illustrated by W. H. Gibson. The fourth part of William Black's "Judith Shakespeare" is given, with an illustration by Abbey; also the fifth part of E. P. Roe's novel, "Nature's Serial Story," illustrated by Gibson and Dielman. Charles Reade concludes his story of "The Picture," and there is a bright short story by an anonymous writer, entitled "Six of One and Half a Dozen of the Other." Poems are contributed by H. H., R. H. Horne, G. T. Lanigan and Laura M. Marquand. Professor W. P. Trowbridge, of the School of Mines, Columbia college, contributes a very important and timely paper on Modern Sanitary Engineering, full of valuable suggestions relating to the water supply of large cities, the sewerage of large inland coast towns, the subsoil drainage of cities, house drainage, and ventilation. The Editor's Easy Chair contains, among other good things, an elegant tribute to the late Wendell Phillips. The other editorial departments are full, as usual, of interesting and entertaining matter.

APRIL MANHATTAN.

Two Americans have reason to be satisfied with the appearance they make in The Manhattan for April—Edwin Booth and Mr. Cropsey, the landscape painter. Both the portrait of Booth, which is the frontispiece, and the portrait of Cropsey are the work of Velten, and are masterpieces of wood engraving, while all the beauty of the cuts is preserved by the richness and delicacy of the printing. The portrait of Booth is one of a series of eight cuts, the other seven depicting him in several of his leading characters. They are all good, but one of the Richelieus and the Lear, from a painting by Jervis McEntee, are particularly fine. These portraits illustrate a most interesting biographical and critical paper on the great actor by Henry C. Pedder, who treats his subject with a breadth of view and nice discrimination seldom brought to it. An article by Matthew Arnold on "Literature and Science" is a strong plea for keeping to literature, in its broadest sense, as the foundation of education. Written with strength and vivacity, the paper shows the famous Englishman at his best.

The paper on Cropsey, which relates many incidents of his life not generally known, has, besides his portrait, a view of the interior of his studio in his house in Orange county, N. Y., of the north and south side of the house, and of the elevated railroad station at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue, which, as well as all the stations on the Sixth avenue line, was designed by Cropsey. Besides, there is a facsimile of a drawing in his possession by the present crown princess of Germany and princess royal of Great Britain, when she was a girl of fifteen. Another illustrated article is on the quaint old town, Rothenburg, in Bavaria, described by Elizabeth E. Evans in a very readable and entertaining way. The newspapers will not all like "Recent Tendencies of American Journalism," by E. V. Smalley, who gives his opinions about American journalism in general, and the effect of the late reduction of price in newspapers in particular, in a frank and unhesitating way. Kate Sanborn attacks in a lively fashion the Chaucerian mishaps and their worship of Dan Chaucer, who, according to them, was born at four different places at different dates, was blessed with three fathers, and was both very fat and very lean.

The fiction comprises "An Autographical Romance," an original and well wrought short story by Julian Hawthorne; "An Easter Egg," a short story with a simple theme, but sweetly and easily told by Mrs. Mary E. Bradley, and a further alluring instalment of Edgar Fawcett's "Tinkling Cymbals." There is a stirring poem by Edna Dean Proctor, full of fire and Oriental color, a supposed address of "El Mahdi to the Tribes of the Soudan," of which the sentiments will, no doubt, meet El Mahdi's approval, if he can read the lines. Among the other poets of the number are Ella Wheeler, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Thomas S. Collier, H. C. Faulkner and J. A. Macon, with an "Old-Time Plantation Song," in the ante-bellum negro dialect, which there are only two or three persons living besides himself competent to write. The departments of Recent Literature, Town Talk and Salmagundi are well filled.

THE MODERN AGE.

The Modern Age for April opens with an interesting story by Canivet, entitled "Sosthenes Baret." "A New View of Mormonism" is by an English member of parliament, and gives the side of the case favorable to the Mormons. "The Story of a Genius" is concluded in this number, and proves it to be a most powerful and interesting piece of fiction. Mario, the great tenor, is agreeably written of in an article of some length. "Sentenced to Spitzbergen" is a thrilling story by Alarcon, the Spanish writer who is just becoming known in this country. "Banqueting; from a Reporter's Standpoint" is a gossipy description of public banquets in England. The number contains two poems, one by Robert Browning, and the other by R. D. Blackmore, the author of "Lorna Doone." The editorial departments are even better than usual, and the prizes are awarded for the second "Examination Papers."

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. Froude is writing a volume to bear the title "The Massacre of Protestants in 1841."

Walter Besant has written a long novel, "Dorothy Forster," to be brought out in May.

Mr. Robert Buchanan's new book, "The Great Problem, or Six Days and a Sabbath," is coming from the press.

Mrs. Hallowell's lives of her grandmother and grandfather, Lucretia and James Mott, will shortly be published.

The fourth volume of the revised edition of Bancroft's "History of the United States" is now ready. The work, it is expected, will be completed during 1884.

A new cover, which has been designed for The Manhattan by the well-known artist, Mr. Francis Lathrop, and placed in the hands of the engraver, it is expected will be ready for the May number.

"Not Like Other Girls," a novel, by Rosa Nouchette Carey, author of "Nellie's Memories," "Queenie's Whim," etc., a charming story of social life in England, will be published shortly by J. B. Lippincott & Co.

Stock has just been taken of the contents of the French Bibliotheque Nationale, which claims to be the largest library in Europe; and the number of volumes has been found to reach the large total of 2,500,000.

The well-known authoress, Mrs. Julia McNair Wright, has written a very entertaining story of English life, under the title of "A Wife Hard Won." The volume is announced for immediate issue by Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co.

Four editions of "Don't" have been published in England, and two burlesques, one entitled "You Shouldn't," and the other "Don't! don't you know." The book itself continues to sell, having now reached fifty-three thousand.

John Boyle O'Reilly, Robert Grant, "J. S. of Dale," John T. Wheelright, and George Parsons Lathrop, as it is reported in the Harvard Herald, are going to write a novel together, and they have already sold what they shall produce for $5,000.

"The Continent," Judge Tourgee's paper, announces for serial publication a novel by the author of "Artus the Libyan." It is a story of the early Christian martyrs, and to be singularly sweet and beautiful. It will be illustrated by Will H. Low.

"Constance F. Woolson," remarks "The Current," "enjoys the peculiar distinction of never having had a manuscript returned. This fact reflects great credit upon Harper Brothers, her publishers, who recognized her genius before she became blessed with the halo of a name."

There are now in the library of congress 515,441 books, 170,000 pamphlets, 3,000 bound volumes of American and foreign newspapers, and over 150,000 lithographs, line-engravings, mezzotints, photo-gravures, chromos, and so on. The number of volumes added to the library in 1883 was 33,365.

The many admirers of "The Colonel's Daughter" will be glad to learn that the author Capt. Charles King, has written another story, entitled "Kitty's Conquest." It is said to be even more interesting than its predecessor, and will be published in a few days by J. B. Lippincott & Co.

David H. Strother, who was once on Banks' staff, and is by courtesy a colonel, has been United States consul at the City of Mexico long enough to have been forgotten as the delightful "Porte Crayon" of twenty years ago. But he is coming home in May, and will again take up his pen and pencil.

The "Hand-Book of Tree-Planting," just published by D. Appleton & Co., treats specially of planting trees in masses; but, while this was the main object of the author, he has endeavored to treat the subject in such a manner as will make the book a proper guide to the tree-planter, whoever he may be, or whatever may be his object in planting.

A TRIO'S TRIBULATIONS

Thrilling Adventures Attending Mountain Travel in Southern Colorado

The following interesting story we clip from the Santa Fe Review As two of the gentlemen, W H Seed and I W Wright, are citizens of Colorado Springs we reproduce it

It is doubtful if ever there were told a more thrilling tale of mountain adventure than that which a representative of the Review gleaned last evening from a trio of gentlemen who had been there and "know whereof they spoke" Mr, W H Seed, representing Chas Henkle & Co, Pueblo, Mr. I. W Wright, of Sprague, Warner & Co, Denver, and Mr Geo W. Clark, western representative of the Missouri Glass works, St Louis, came in on the Espanola stage from the north at noon and took quarters at the Palace They looked like they had been wearing mustard plasters on their faces for a week

The cuticle was dried and cracked and curled up over their noses and cheeks like the sun dried bottom of a Missouri creek on a windy day. Their nobby stiff crowned hats had been discarded for large sombreros, they wore blue flannel shirts and leggings, and the handkerchief of each had three suspicious looking holes torn in the center calculated to give the impression that they had figured in some desperate deed common to highwaymen

The gentlemen had hardly been assigned to rooms before a reporter was on their trail to learn what it all meant, and the party went over their adventures in the mountains again with decidedly more relish than had been displayed while going through their first experience

On March 2 Messrs Seed, Clark and Wright boarded the D & R G passenger train at Antonito en route to Durango on a commercial visit. There were nineteen passengers aboard, including two ladies and four children That afternoon the train struck a snow bank four miles east of Cumbres The fires went out in the engine, every wheel was clogged, and the "beautiful" began drifting over the train, In this condition they remained till March 9—just a week At the end of that time the situation became desperate—a clear case of life and death with the chances largely in favor of the worst There were two cases of eggs in the express car and the train boy had a limited stock of apples, peanuts, pecans and oranges By the stinted use of these the party of nineteen managed to keep off starvation for the first three days, and then, again something had to be done Desperate as it was a couple of Mexicans agreed to undertake a trip to Cumbres in search of provender provided they were well paid for it The snow was anywhere from ten to forty feet deep, but they got through and returned with a supply of provisions sufficient to last two days. Hungry as they were the party had the good sense to appoint a commissary with instructions to figure out the greatest daily allowance per head, and shoot the first man that showed signs of desperation But there was nothing to drink—nothing but melted snow, and that was—well, it was simply fearful for some of those passengers. However, the commissary allowed them one sandwich, two eggs and one cup of coffee daily, and by this means they fared comfortably until Sunday the 9th. Then the train men despaired of aid and gave orders that everybody who could must take to the snow bank and walk out.

One poor fellow who was traveling with his little daughter complained bitterly and said his child would perish, but he had to go, for the provisions were low and barely sufficient remained to keep the two ladies and three children alive, together with the husband of one of the ladies, until some of the party could get out and send aid Such times of peril make men brothers, and all took turn about in carrying the child on their backs and after a desperate struggle through a blinding storm reached Cumbres. In order to make the journey the party were compelled to crawl through a 400 foot snow shed in which the snow had drifted till it formed a perfect tunnel not larger than three feet in diameter, and, as Mr. Seed says, the Lord only knows how high it was above the shed.

At Cumbres the party found a train so completely snowed in that the men had made holes in the snow and went in and out of the cars like prairie dogs enter their burrows. A similar aperture was made through five feet of snow on top of the section house and the railroad employes entered the house through the roof. Here the party slept and remained till Tuesday, the 11th inst., when they started out and walked eight miles to a point on the road where Division Superintendent Lytle's train had been snow bound and "dead" for four days in an endeavor to reach Cumbres and render relief to them Despairing of all other hope, the gentlemen above named started on Wednesday morning to walk to Chama. A sturdy mountaineer named Burns led the way and broke the trail, the snow being breast deep for four miles out of the entire distance of eight. In a number of instances they sat down and rested on the cross-arms of the telegraph poles, and sometimes poles and wires were found buried completely. On several occasions the commercial men lost all hope. They had been cooped up in a "dead" train for eight days and were weak. "A jack-knife was a burden, and a man's hat felt like a mountain," said Mr. Wright "We are indebted to Burns for our lives. He cheered us on and often and often came back after he had broken the trail and helped us out of a snow pit-in which we had floundered for ten minutes Most of this time it was snowing and wind cutting our faces till they cracked and bled. Burns saved us some pain, however, by slitting holes in our handkerchiefs, and tying them tight over our faces, giving us the appearance of veritable highway robbers" At Chama they secured snow shoes—"a man who has never slipped down a 500 foot glacier doesn't understand what kind of a gait is his favorite until he sets on his first pair of snow shoes," remarked Mr. Clark. Friday night, the 14th instant, found them at Los Ojos, thence on horseback to Esquibel's ranch, thence by team to Abiquiu and Boquet's, where they boarded the Espanola stage for Santa Fe Thus far these are the only three men out of the San Juan country since the first of the month What became of their fellow passengers is unknown, but Superintendent Lytle is within eight miles of Cumbres, and it is believed that ere this he has gone to their relief. The day these gentlemen left he had given orders for a dozen carpenters to push their way through on foot to Cumbres and build a number of sleighs to be manned by mountaineers and sent to the relief of the women and children on the "dead" train, They were to start on this mission yesterday. All this is on the Durango extension. A large force of men are at work, but up to the time of this party's leaving the continuous storm and drifting was so severe that but little could be accomplished in the way of clearing the track. The Espanola branch is in much better condition. A day's work would put trains through but all efforts to clear away the snow and save the valuable property—and perhaps life now endangered are centered on the Durango extension

The Third Victim

GALVESTON, March 11—A News San Antonio special says Joe Foster, a gambler and proprietor of a variety theatre, shot in the leg during the recent memorable affray with the desperadoes Ben Thompson and King Fisher, who were killed on the spot, died to-day from the effects of his wounds Foster leaves a wife and valuable estate

The want of a reliable diuretic which while acting as a stimulant of the kidneys neither excites nor irritates them was long since supplied by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters This fine tonic exerts the requisite degree of stimulation upon those organs, without producing irritation, and is therefore far better adapted for the purpose than unmedicated excitants often resorted to. Dyspepsia, fever and ague and kindred diseases, are all cured by it For sale by all druggists and dealers generally dwly

MISS M. A. CARPENTER, Manager.

Local politics at Manitou are warming up considerably.

Sheriff Dana was busy yesterday serving summonses in the Chivington cases.

The walls of the new skating rink are going up rapidly and will be completed early in the week.

Architect Roeschlaub of the new school building was among the arrivals at The Antlers yesterday morning.

The last number of the Police Gazette contains a picture of the thoroughbred bull terrier "Jennie" belonging to Mr. F. H. Rey of The Antlers.

This morning's Denver Republican will contain an article on Colorado Springs and Manitou. Copies can be had of the newsboys and at the news stands.

Amended answers were filed in the county court yesterday and adjournment taken until Monday. It is not known whether the defendants will be ready for trial then or not.

A first class concert will be given on Friday evening under the auspices of the First M. E. church choir. The programme will be published early in the week. Tickets 25 cents.

The ladies of the Christian church will give a free sociable Tuesday evening, March 25, third door north of the National bank. In connection they will serve a New England supper from 5 to 10, for 35 cents.

Rev. Mr. Gregg's literature class will be held on Monday evening at 7.45. The subject will be Tennyson's Dream of Fair Women, the Ode to the Duke of Wellington, and the Northern Farmer (old style and new style)

At the First M. E. church, Rev. Jas. B. Gregg will conduct the morning service Subject of discourse "Daniel." In the evening the pastor, Rev. A. W. Arundel, will preach on "The Great Essential in Religion."

At the services of the Congregational church at the opera house to day, Rev. A. W. Arundel will preach in the morning and in the evening the pastor, Rev. J. B. Gregg, will give the last of his series of lectures to young people. Subject: "Enlisted for the War."

Two Chinamen, Lo Wah Lee and Quong Wah, were arrested by Marshal Beall yesterday afternoon and taken before Justice Pixley. They were charged with depositing of ashes in barrels in violation of the city ordinance. The former was fined $12.30 and the latter $7.70.

Dr. Marlow was brought before Justice Pixley yesterday afternoon for violating the state statute for practicing medicine without a license from the state board of medical examiners. The complaint was brought by J. W. McLoan. A continuance was granted until Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Judith Ellen Foster will give a temperance lecture a week from to night in the opera house. Mrs. Foster is superintendent of the legislative department of the W.C.T.U. In her line of work she has no equal in the country. None should miss this rare opportunity of hearing this celebrated woman lawyer.

The notice has just been handed us of the sudden death of Henry Briggs, an old time Coloradoan, in this city, on Thursday the 20th instant. He came to Colorado in 1861 and was for a number of years a resident of Douglas county, but has lately lived in Colorado Springs. His funeral will take place at 2 p. m. to-day from the residence of his daughter, on Corona between Willamette and Dale streets.

The New York World contained the following complimentary notice: "Mr. and Mrs George S Knight, fresh from their victories in the old world, last night recommenced their conquest of the new. Otto, a German, and Lizette, Queen of Hearts, with the rest of the company through whose aid Fred Marsden's comedy has won a world-wide reputation, were welcomed back to America by a large audience assembled in the Grand Opera House. New specialties—i. e., songs—were last night introduced with the success that seems to attend the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Knight, to whom alone the long life of 'Otto' is to be attributed."

Colorado Springs is to have a chance next week to hear Mr. Edwin D. Mead, of Boston. Mr. Mead has spent several years in Germany studying German philosophy, and delivered a series of lectures in Boston on German thought, which was exceedingly well received. He was also for some time in England, that he might have the best opportunity for making himself familiar with the important movements of the day in that country He has written a work on the The Philosophy of Carlyle, and it is his intention to speak here of Carlyle in connection with Emerson. The fact that Mr. Mead was the man chosen to speak on Emerson at the Emerson-Darwin memorial meeting in Boston, would imply that his reputation as a student of the American philosopher is a good one, and to those who have had the good fortune, as the writer has, to read his essay on Emerson and Theodore Parker, the choice will not seem a strange one.

Appleton's Illustrated Guide to Mexico,

Chapter on Guatemala, and a Complete English-Speaking Vocabulary.

By ALFRED B. CONKLING,

Member of the New York Academy of Sciences and formerly United States Geologist.

Letter from Gen. Grant.

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 4, 1883.

Dear Sir—I have read over the advance sheets of your excellent "Guide Book to Mexico" with great pleasure. It supplies a want now for the first time being felt. Mexico, with all her resources of soil, climate, and mines, has not attracted much of the attention of people of other lands until within the last three or four years Now, with the rapid strides she is making—and is destined to make—toward a commercial prosperity, rarely equaled by any nation in the past, travel to that country will increase many fold, and your book will give the traveler the information he wants. Information is wonderfully contained in it, and I wonder at its completeness in so little space

Very truly yours, U S GRANT.

"The most attractive one volume history of the United States that we have seen."—Boston Literary World.

"Nothing better exists as a compendium of our country's history," says the editor of the Boston Transcript, in the course of a long and careful review.

"Its accuracy will stand."—Boston Transcript.

"Considering the general brevity of the book, it is marvelously full; and, considering the long story to be told, crowded with fact and detail; the graceful style, warm coloring and general lifelike animation of the book is a still greater marvel."—N. Y. Independent.

"The extreme care with which the facts have been collated, and the attention shown to the latest results of investigation and discussion, even in minor matters, makes it very valuable as a book of reference." Pittsfield Eagle
